

REWARDS POLICY 2008

Context

Rewards, praise and encouragement are amongst the most powerful aids to teaching, maintaining high standards of behaviour and fostering a positive school ethos.

As a school we recognise that a key part of developing the potential of our students is giving encouragement and praise. Praise is a key component of good teaching and good staff/student relationships. Staff at Ratton actively look for opportunities to praise students both within and beyond lessons.

Our rewards system encourages our students to strive for achievement and excellence.

In order for our rewards system to be effective it needs to be continuously developed.

Status	Non Statutory

Purpose

The purpose of our rewards system is to allow us to celebrate achievement, excellence, and contribution in all aspects of school life.

It is the teacher's responsibility to praise students whenever possible. This may be during lessons, when marking exercise books or other assessments, and around school. Research clearly shows that the most effective positive behaviour modification occurs when the praise to rebuke ratio is in excess of 3:1 for both learning and behaviour.

In order for this policy to be effective, it needs to be valued by students and staff and applied fairly and consistently.

To ensure that all students value rewards:

- they need to be consulted
- every student needs to believe it is possible for them to be rewarded
- every student needs to believe that the system is applied consistently and fairly
- they should only be given when a student does something special, achieves well or excels
- the system should operate differently for older students, with more private praise.
